Home Kickoff

Samford will host West Alabama in its home football opener Thursday, Sept. 4, at 7 p.m. in Seibert Stadium.

Journalism Prof Dennis Jones Wins Buchanan Award

Dennis Jones cut his journalistic teeth in an Indiana high school classroom 37 years ago, but only after completing a "post-graduate" course in the newsroom of the local newspaper.

Armed with a degree in English and a teaching certificate from Manchester College in 1966, he took a high school teaching job. He was promptly assigned to teach three journalism classes and advise the largest high school student newspaper in his state.

He turned to the local daily for help.

"The Michigan City News-Dispatch let me practically move in and learn from them so that I could teach my students," the Samford journalism professor recalled last week. He enjoyed journalism so much that he went on to earn a master's and doctorate in the subject at the University of South Carolina.

Jones has taught at Samford since 1991. His classroom efforts were rewarded at opening convocation when he was named winner of this year's Buchanan Teaching Award.

Jones stresses classroom participation. "If you're in my class, you cannot just sit back and take notes," he said. "You have to chime in."

Jones chaired the journalism department at the University of Southern Mississippi before coming to Samford. He also taught at South Carolina and Radford University.

In addition, Jones has worked at several newspapers over the years, including The Columbia Record in South Carolina and the St. Petersburg Times in Florida.

The selection process for the Buchanan Award is based partially on nominations from the previous year's senior class. ■

Samford Ranked 5th in South by U.S. News

Samford University again ranks as one of the top institutions in the South in the annual U.S. News & World Report rankings of America's Best Colleges.

Samford ranks fifth in the South in its category, Best Universities—Master's, which includes schools offering a full range of undergraduate and master's programs, and some doctoral programs. Samford offers 26 degree programs, including 18 at the master's and doctoral levels.

U.S. News & World Report rankings are based on a school's academic reputation, freshman retention rates, faculty resources, class size, student selectivity, financial resources and alumni giving.

Samford has been ranked in the top 10 in its category by U.S. News & World Report since 1990. ■

Samford Charity Kicks Off Sept. 8

Samford faculty and staff have been generous supporters of Samford Charity during past years, contributing voluntarily to the program that helps the University and other worthy causes. Last year, about four of every five Samford employees (78 percent) made gifts to the fund.

Samford Charity runs annually during September and October, and faculty and staff once again will have the opportunity to contribute. The campaign will kick off Monday, Sept. 8, according to director Monty Hogewood, senior development officer.

Samford Charity supports Samford programs, United Way, Samford Habitat for Humanity and the University's Employee Emergency Assistance Fund. A total of 563 faculty and staff members gave $203,796 to these causes last year.

Donors may designate their gifts. Undesignated gifts are allocated using the following formula: Samford Fund, 50 percent; United Way, 25 percent; Samford Habitat for Humanity house, 15 percent; and Employee Emergency Assistance Fund, 10 percent.

Employees can give through payroll deductions or make individual gifts. Payroll deductions for the 2003–04 campaign will begin in January. ■

Gooding Leaves Business Deanship; Marlene Reed Named Acting Dean

After 25 years as an administrator, Samford University School of Business Dean Carl Gooding decided during the summer to return to the classroom.

"I have reached the point in my life where I want to teach and have more time to spend with family and grandchildren," said Gooding, 58. "It is my intention to spend the rest of my working life as a faculty member on a nine-month contract."

Dr. Marlene Reed, named in June as the Margaret Gage Bush University Professor at Samford, was appointed acting dean of the School of Business. She will have administrative responsibilities until a new dean is named.

Dr. Gooding, who came to Samford in 2001 after 15 years as business dean at Georgia Southern University, left the deanship in August.

Samford Provost Brad Creed announced Gooding's decision and Reed's appointment.

Mary Sue Baldwin (PBL) and Clara Gerhardt (Human Sciences and Design) presented "Designing a PBL Course" to faculty at San Antonio Community College Aug. 22. The college recently reviewed its curriculum and determined a new pedagogy was needed to encourage active student learning. PBL was the choice.

Jennifer Beall, Paula Thompson, Marshall Cates and Mary Monk-Tutor (Pharmacy) presented a poster paper entitled "Curriculum Assessment: Faculty and Student Perceptions of Professional Preparedness" at the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy annual meeting in Minneapolis July 20.

Amanda Borden (Communication Studies) presented a paper, "Christian Environmentalism: Integrating Judeo-Christian Principles, Humanities and Environmental Service Learning into Instruction in Communication" at the International Conference on New Directions in the Humanities, University of the Aegean, Island of Rhodes, Greece, July 2–5. She also delivered a presentation, "Oral Communication Competence: A Problem-Based Learning Assessment Strategy" at the 10th International Literacy & Education Research Network Conference on Learning, University of London, July 15–18.

Stephen Chew (Psychology) was co-author with Amanda Budkoski, a 2002 graduate, of a paper presented at the meeting of the American Psychological Association in Toronto entitled "An Evaluation of Three Symbolic Gesturing Systems for Preverbal Infants." This paper was based on Budkoski's senior research project. Chew also had his syllabus for PSYC 101 General Psychology published as part of the Teacher's Guide—Advanced Placement Psychology, a resource book for teachers of AP psychology written by Amy Fineburg, a 1994 graduate.

Charles (Bo) Cole (Law) directed Samford's July study-abroad program at Durham University, England, which enrolled 62 juris doctor and master of comparative law students from six universities. They studied comparative constitutional law, international business transactions, comparative alternative dispute resolution, European Union Law and the law of the English Legal System. They also visited the Scottish Supreme Courts in Edinburgh and historical sites.

Dan Czech (Exercise Science and Sports Medicine) and Laurie Malone (Director of Research, Lakeshore Hospital) presented a paper, "A Comparison of Sport Orientation Levels between Elite Athletes with a Disability—An Exploratory Investigation" at the 2003 International VISTA Conference for Athletes with a Disability in Bollnas, Sweden.

Norfleete Day (Divinity) presented two workshops on "Keeping Sabbath" for the Greater Shiloh Baptist Church women's retreat at Hargis Retreat Center Aug. 16. In July, she attended the second session of The Upper Room's Academy for Spiritual Formation at Camp Sumatanga, Gallant.

Renee DeHart, Mary Monk-Tutor, Sherry Price, John Sowell and Mary Worthington (Pharmacy) presented a poster entitled "School-wide Implementation of Personal Digital Assistant [PDA] technology: A First-year Report" at the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy annual meeting in Minneapolis July 20.

Les Ennis (Education and Professional Studies/Law) completed the Management Development Program [MDP] at the Harvard Graduate School of Education, Harvard University, this summer.

Gigi Gauthier (Law) was appointed 2003–04 Volunteer Council vice president for the Junior League of Birmingham. She will serve on the Executive Board and begin her second term as a member of the Executive Committee and Community Council. Through the Volunteer Council, she will provide training and support to chairs/co-chairs of the league's 33 community projects.

Scott Fisk's (Art) video art, Transience, was selected for inclusion in the 2003 Appalachian Corridors exhibition at the Avampato Discovery Museum in Charleston, W.V. More than 1,100 entries were juried over a three-day period, with 172 selected for the exhibition, which will open Sept. 13.

Betsy Holloway (Business) had her manuscript, "Adaptive Selling Behavior Revisited: An Empirical Examination of Learning Orientation, Sales Performance and Job Satisfaction," accepted for publication in the Journal of Personal Selling and Sales Management. The paper reports the results of an empirical study examining the relationships among learning orientation, adaptive selling behavior, sales performance and job satisfaction among a sample of Korean auto salespeople.

Frannie Horn (Law) was appointed to the Advisory Board for Hands On Birmingham, Inc., an Alabama non-profit corporation committed to providing flexible, hands-on volunteer opportunities for individuals whose work and life challenges prohibit their active involvement in traditional volunteer programs.

Mary Monk-Tutor (Pharmacy) led a roundtable discussion on "How to Prepare Course Portfolios" at the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy annual meeting in Minneapolis July 22.

David Laney (Business) presented "Data Sanity, or If You Ain't Doin' Statistics, You Ain't Doin' Quality" at the June meeting of the Greenville, S.C., chapter of the American Society for Quality. Laney has presented the program at society chapters in Birmingham, Atlanta, Newark, New Jersey, and other places. The program is a lighthearted but insightful observation on the appalling state of "numerical illiteracy" in American society.

Sherrie Lawhon (Performing Arts) was the soprano coach and singer in the North American premier of Handel's Messiah performed in Mandarin Chinese at St. Mary's Cathedral in San Francisco Aug. 3. The effort was launched by the Chinese Christian Church Music Institute for Worship's annual church music training camp, where Lawhon teaches yearly.

Philip Poole (University Relations) attended the annual meeting of the World Association of Christian Communication July 29–Aug. 3 at Vancouver School of Theology, Vancouver, British Columbia. He serves on the North American Region executive committee for WACC. The meeting included a two-day seminar on "Truth and Trust," dealing with media coverage of religion issues surrounding the U.S. war with Iraq.

Milburn Price (Performing Arts) will chair a National Association of Schools of Music [NASM] accreditation team visit to Harding University in Arkansas Sept. 21–23.

Stephen Ruble (Exercise Science and Sports Medicine) recently published "Laser Revascularization of Ischemic Skeletal Muscle" in the Journal of Surgical Research. He was one of five in Alabama invited to the Southern District Leadership Conference. Ruble will be on sabbatical during the spring of 2004 at the Medical College of Wisconsin, Department of Anesthesiology and Physiology, where he will examine blood pressure regulation.

Gloria Russell (Nursing) presented her research, "Beliefs and Attitudes Toward Classroom Cheating," at the fifth National Convention for Laboratory Skills Instructors in San Antonio. The research was conducted among community colleges across Alabama.

Don Sanders (Performing Arts) attended the National Conference on Piano Pedagogy in Chicago Aug. 6–9.

Joys & Sorrows

Congratulations to . . .

• Janet Alexander (Nursing) on the Aug. 9 marriage of her son, Daniel, to Katherine Brassell. Both are Samford graduates, Class of 2000.

• Jerri Dorrough (Controller's Office) on the Aug. 9 birth of her first grandchild, Summer Kay, to parents Rick and Melanie Smith, Samford graduates.

• Anita Estis (Controller's Office) on the July 10 birth of her second grandchild, Kathlyn Avery, to parents Dana and Monte Horton.

• Judy Martin (Global Center) on the Aug. 2 marriage of her daughter, Stephanie, to Steven Sivley.

Sympathy is expressed to . . .

• Jordan Catt (Preparatory Music) in the death of her mother, Peggy Lloyd, in late July.

• Deborah Childs-Bowen (Education and Professional Studies) in the Aug. 24 death of her mother.

• Dale Massey (Business) in the Aug. 23 death of her grandmother.

• John Sowell (Pharmacy) in the death of his mother, Betty Sowell, in early August.

Dear Dr. and Mrs. Corts
and Samford Family,

John and I want to thank you for the lovely plant that you sent in memory of his mother, Betty Sowell. We really do appreciate your kindness and thoughtfulness at this most difficult time.

May God bless you all.

Sincerely,
Mary Sowell

Mars Watch, Program Set for Planetarium

Mars will continue to dominate astronomical news during the next few months because of its proximity to Earth and the four spacecraft headed to the Red Planet, due to arrive in January. Dr. Bradley Carlson, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration [NASA] propulsion engineer, will present a multimedia program about how people will travel to Mars. The program will be Tuesday, Sept. 16, at 7 p.m. in the Planetarium.

Hedger Photography in Library

The Samford Library is presenting photography by Mike Hedger, a Samford graduate, during September. The art is showcased on the main level around the grand staircase. Hedger is the son of Russell Hedger, retired music professor.

Experimental Artists Show

The Samford Art Gallery will continue to show the 2003 Juried Exhibition of the Experimental Artists of Alabama until Sept. 14. Included are 50 works in acrylics, oils, pastel and mixed media. Gallery hours are 9 a.m.–4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Samford Faculty Saluted for Teaching Efforts

A leading specialist on learning among college students is impressed with much of what he sees happening in Samford University classrooms.

"I'm taken with the way Samford seems to personalize education for its students," George Kuh said during the preschool faculty workshop Aug. 19. "I like the simplicity of what you're about, even though it's extremely complex."

Dr. Kuh also saluted the efforts Samford faculty take to make sure students graduate with the capabilities to perform successfully.

Kuh, chancellor's professor of higher education at Indiana University–Bloomington, based his remarks on statistics taken from Samford students' responses to the National Survey of Student Engagement.

He directs IU's Center of Postsecondary Research, Policy and Planning, which houses the National Survey of Student Engagement. ■

Business capable and trusted leadership based upon his years of experience as a dean and his knowledge of the field of business education," said Dr. Creed. "He has also served as a valued member of the Council of Deans while at Samford. I am grateful for his contributions to our University.

"We are fortunate to have a person with Dr. Reed's experience and skills to serve in this interim capacity," Creed added.

Reed has taught at Samford since 1981. She was named Alabama Professor of the Year by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching in 1994. She serves on the Council of Economic Advisers of the Birmingham Regional Chamber of Commerce.

Gooding will teach this fall at Jacksonville State University. He taught at East Carolina University, Clemson and the University of Georgia before becoming dean at Georgia Southern in 1986. ■

Samford Group Attends AAHE, Plans Transformational Learning

Nine faculty and administration members attended the American Association of Higher Education Summer Academy in Snowbird, Utah, July 16–20.

The academy provides opportunities for groups of administrators and faculty to work intensively on projects and to network with education colleagues.

Attending the academy were Brad Creed (Provost), David Chapman (Arts and Sciences), Cindy Kirk (Metro College), Nena Sanders (Nursing), Dana Basinger (Core Curriculum), Mary Sue Baldwin (Problem-Based Learning), Sarah Latham (Institutional Research), Michael Morgan (University Relations) and Sarah Bell.

The Samford group discussed and planned the next phases of the Transformational Learning Abilities project, which was introduced at the Faculty Workshop in August.

Creed, Chapman, Baldwin and Bell also presented "Creating a Climate for Curricular Reform" at one of the various breakout sessions. ■
