Old Howard 100 Ride Set for April 18

The fifth annual Old Howard 100 Bike Ride through the countryside of Alabama's Black Belt will be Saturday, April 18.

Sponsored by Samford's Howard College of Arts and Sciences, the ride will begin and end at Judson College in Marion, Ala. This year's route will include Selma, where the final rest stop will be at First Baptist Church.

Riders will start en mass at 9 a.m. on routes of 30, 45, 75 and 100 miles through picturesque rural areas.

Last year's event drew 240 riders from eight states.

Ride details and online registration are available at www.samford.edu/oldhoward. For information, contact Bridget Rose at bcrose@samford.edu or call Howard College of Arts and Sciences at ext. 2771. ■

Frost Wins Major Fellowship from Institute for Advanced Studies

Samford historian Ginger S. Frost was accepted as a member at the Institute for Advanced Studies [IAS] at Princeton, N.J. The fellowship award will enable Dr. Frost to spend a sabbatical year at the institute working on her latest book project, Strangers in Blood: Illegitimacy in England, 1860–1939.

Dr. Frost with her two new books.

The IAS was founded in 1930, and one of its first faculty members was Albert Einstein, who joined the IAS in 1933 and served until his death in 1955. Historian George Kennan and physicist J. Robert Oppenheimer are among many noted scholars to have served on its faculty.

Each year, the IAS selects about 200 members to receive fellowships from about 1,500 applicants. It expects a member's period in residence to result in work of significance and originality.

"Dr. Frost's membership at the Institute for Advanced Studies is another testament to her status as a world-class scholar," said Dr. David W. Chapman, dean of Samford's Howard College of Arts and Sciences.

Frost also has received a $6,000 summer stipend from the National Endowment for the Humanities to fund research in Great Britain before she heads to Princeton this fall.

Frost recently published two peer-reviewed books with academic presses in her field of British history. Victorian Childhoods, a study of children growing up in Victorian Britain, is part of the "Victorian Life and Times" series by Praeger Press. Living in Sin: Cohabitating as Husband and Wife in Nineteenth Century England, which looks at how the courts dealt with hundreds of common-law marriages, is part of the "Gender in History" series of Manchester University Press.

Cumberland Qualifies for Nationals

A team from Samford's Cumberland School of Law qualified for the National Trial Competition championships in San Antonio, Texas, March 25–28 by winning regional honors Feb. 20–21 in Tallahassee, Fla.

Winning team members were Megan Head, Josh Hornady, Lisha Li and Ashley Reitz. Jim Roberts, a 1994 law graduate, coached the team.

A second team, also coached by Roberts, advanced to the semifinal round. Cumberland School of Law was the only school of 12 in the competition to have two teams advance to the semifinal round. Among other teams entered were Florida State University, and the universities of Alabama, Florida, Miami and Mississippi. ■

Sciencenter to Become William Self Propst Hall

Samford's largest academic building, the 96,000-square-foot Sciencenter, will become William Self Propst Hall during a dedicatory naming program Tuesday, March 10, at 10:30 a.m.

The naming will honor Propst, a 1961 Samford pharmacy graduate who combined his degree and entrepreneurial talents to become one of the nation's most successful pharmacists. The Huntsville, Ala., native began with a single pharmacy in his hometown but initiated the concept of leased pharmacy operations in Kmart stores that eventually saw 1,258 pharmacies operating in the discount chain.

Propst served as president of the Kmart pharmacy operations for 17 years.

The Samford graduate went to work at a Walgreen's store in Huntsville after earning his degree, and his managerial talents helped make it the number one store in the nation. "I could meet people and be helpful," he said. "I enjoyed the hustle and bustle of the business."

He opened his first store in 1964 and added four others in Huntsville before initiating the Kmart project. Later, he founded and served as president of Qualitest Products, Inc., a wholesale drug products and equipment company.

Propst was named Samford's Alumnus of the Year in 1996. ■

Samford Spring Enrollment, Fall Applications Increase

Samford spring enrollment is up by 61 students over the spring of 2008. At the same time, the university has received a record number of applications for the fall semester.

Spring enrollment is 4,298, with increases recorded primarily in graduate programs.

"The enrollment increase is welcome news for the university, and represents the positive results of our faculty and staff efforts to retain our students," said President Andrew Westmoreland.

Meanwhile, the university had received more than 2,200 applications through Feb. 28, exceeding the record of 2,154 received for last fall's entering class. Dean of Admission and Financial Aid Phil Kimrey considers these "firm applications" because the students have paid the application fee.

The university's administration and admission staff are working to meet a fall enrollment goal of about 770 freshmen, based on number of applications. The entering freshman class has increased steadily from about 660 five years ago to about 710 last fall. ■
