Cook Selected as Cumberland's Lawyer in Residence

Cumberland School of Law has named well-known criminal defense attorney Bobby Lee Cook this year's Lawyer in Residence for the law school. Cook will speak to students on Thursday, November 10 at 3 p.m. in Cumberland School of Law's John L. Carroll Moot Courtroom. The event is open to the public and free of charge.

After graduating from Vanderbilt University Law School in the 1940s, Cook began a criminal defense career that continues more than six decades later. He has tried thousands of cases, representing hundreds of accused murderers, money launderers, racketeers, bootleggers, high profile white collar criminals, and some very unpopular clients. Regarded as one of the South's best-known defense attorneys, it is widely believed that Andy Griffith's character in the television series "Matlock" was based on the professional life of Cook. A Google search of "Bobby Lee Cook" reveals over 13 million results.

One of those results is a YouTube video in which Cook is dubbed "The Master of Reasonable Doubt."

In addition to criminal proceedings, Cook took a stand by representing labor unions at a time when many in the South viewed pro-labor organizations as "Communist sympathizers." In the late 70s, Cook represented the Rockefellers and Carnegies as plaintiffs in a land condemnation action. He used the jury's basic mistrust of government as a foundation for his case and the jury awarded millions above what the government offered. In recent years, Cook settled a case that directly benefitted hundreds of retired Georgia teachers. Cook represented the retirees who contended that the Teachers Retirement System ("TRS") incorrectly calculated their monthly retirement pay by using the wrong mortality tables. Cook recovered millions of dollars on behalf of the retired teachers, effectively reimbursing retirement funds upon which they were dependent.

Cook has been honored for his tenacity by hundreds of groups. He was the first recipient of the Traditional Excellence Awards given by the State Bar of Georgia, the Lifetime Achievement Award by the National Criminal Defense Lawyers Association and the Small Town Lawyer Made Good Award by the State Bar of Washington.

Since he is one of the most accomplished, colorful, and well known trial attorneys in the country, Mr. Cook was the ideal keynote speaker at the inaugural Jere F. White, Jr. Trial Advocacy Institute in 2012. He made a generous contribution to the Jere F. White, Jr. Fellows program. The planning chairs of the institute have remained in contact with Mr. Cook and invited him to return to the 2016 institute as a special guest. Mr. Cook agreed to extend his visit to address and meet with Cumberland students and faculty as this year's Lawyer-in-Residence.

Cumberland School of Law's Lawyer in Residence program annually invites a distinguished graduate or friend of the law school to visit campus, speaking to classes related to his or her area of expertise. The program allows students to augment the traditional curriculum with the experiences of current practitioners.

2L, 3L Students May Compete in Client Counseling Competition

Are you interested in competing in Cumberland's Client Counseling Competition? 2L and 3L students must try-out if they want to be selected for the National Client Counseling Team, even those that were members last year.

The Client Counseling competition is set up like client intake, where you and a partner will be given a brief idea of what your "client" is coming in for and you will be responsible to greet them, make them feel comfortable and inquire more into what their needs are in seeking out legal counsel. You will get the problem a couple days before so you and your partner can prepare.

The competition will be held on November 17, 2016. The first round will be held at 5 p.m. and the final round will follow shortly after (about 7 p.m.). You can sign up by emailing Depri Hale. The cost is $5 per person or $10 per team and you can bring cash or check or venmo to Cumberland Trial Board along with you and your partner's name. If you do not have a partner, we will assign one. Those that try-out and are selected for the team will be members of the National Client Counseling Team.

Nominate Full-Time, Adjunct Faculty for Annual Teaching Awards

Cumberland has a long history of outstanding teaching, and superior teaching is a critical part of the school. In order to foster and recognize outstanding teaching at Cumberland, two alumni provided a generous gift to endow the Harvey S. Jackson Excellence in Teaching Award. Two Jackson Teaching Awards are given each year--one to a professor who teaches first year courses and one to a professor who teaches upper level courses.

Any Cumberland student or faculty member may nominate a professor for the award by sending an email to Dean Strickland which explains how the nominee meets the criteria for the award. The criteria are (1) mastery of the subject matter; (2) ability to convey information effectively to students; (3) demonstrated enthusiasm for teaching; (4) commitment to excellence in the classroom; (5) innovation in teaching techniques and (6) commitment to students.

You may nominate someone whose course you are currently taking, someone whose course you have taken in the past, or someone with whom you have had other contact that demonstrates outstanding teaching in relation to the criteria above.

A joint committee of faculty and students will choose the winners, and we will announce the winners in the spring. A faculty member who has won the award in a particular category is not eligible to receive that award again for a period of three years. The faculty members who currently are ineligible to receive the award in a category because they have received it in the past three years are Professors Evans, Greene (Bob) and Ross (First Year Courses) and Professors Floyd, Walthall and Young (Upper Level Courses). The names of all of the award winners are on a plaque outside the Great Room.

Please take time to nominate a professor for this important award. In your nomination, please specify which award you are nominating a professor for – the First Year Award or the Upper Level Award and briefly explain why you think the nominee is deserving. Nominations are due by the last day of class of the fall semester.

The hard work and devotion of Cumberland's adjunct faculty will be recognized by the selection of one adjunct professor each year to receive an award titled "Outstanding Adjunct Professor Award." Dean Strickland solicits your help in selecting the winner of this award by asking for nominations of a deserving adjunct professor.

The criteria and some of the procedures in place for selecting the Jackson Teaching Award recipients from full time faculty will be used. The criteria for the Award considered by the Committee shall include (i) mastery of subject matter; (ii) ability to convey information effectively to students; (iii) demonstrated enthusiasm for teaching; (iv) commitment to excellence in the classroom;

(iv) innovation in teaching techniques; and (v) commitment to students.

A faculty member who recently has won the award is not eligible to receive that award again for a period of three years. Professor Jay D. St. Clair is thus ineligible to receive the award this year.

Please submit your nominations to Dean Strickland or to Ms. Kathy Walton by the end of the fall semester, explaining why you believe your nominee deserves the award. The Jackson Award committee, which is composed of students and full time faculty, will select the recipient from the nominations.
