“The experience here at Sidney Sussex College has been a dream come true. From its location in perhaps the most beautiful city in all of the United Kingdom, where mere steps from your dorm you can see history that predates the discovery of America in the very college you are attending, to late night walks throughout this historic city seeing and hearing 20 plus languages being spoken. An international immersion in culture and learning, that cannot be replicated anywhere in the United States. I wish I could do an entire year over here learning and living and growing in my understanding of the world community that we are a part of, but so isolated from in the United States. Everyday in Cambridge has been an adventure, a learning experience, and a delight. I truly hope that this program continues for decades, as I for one will tell you that my educational experience would not have been fulfilling without this trip.”

I. Law Schools Sponsoring the Program

Samford University’s Cumberland School of Law
Samford University’s Cumberland School of Law is one of the oldest law schools in the United States. Cumberland School of Law was founded in 1847 and moved to Birmingham, Ala., in 1961. The law school has become nationally recognized for its advocacy program, center for children’s rights, and the use of technology in the classroom. The law faculty is composed of dedicated law teachers and scholars with rich experience gained from judicial clerkships, private practice, government service and corporate America. Located in a thriving financial, legal and medical services center of Alabama, Cumberland School of Law offers students opportunities to pursue a wide variety of academic, professional and social interests. Many students take advantage of the opportunity to broaden their perspectives through summer study-abroad programs and interaction with international attorneys and jurists who study on Samford University’s campus in the Master of Comparative Law program. Cumberland prides itself as a place “where good people become exceptional lawyers,” with emphasis on practical education for the practice of law.

Campbell University’s Norman Adrian Wiggins School of Law
Since its founding in 1976, Campbell Law School has developed lawyers who possess moral conviction, social compassion and professional competence, and who view the law as a calling to serve others. The school has twice received the Gambrell Professionalism Award from the American Bar Association, honoring its First-Year Professionalism Development Series in 2003 and the Connections mentorship program in 2016. The school has also been recognized by the American Academy of Trial Lawyers for having the nation’s best Trial Advocacy Program. Campbell Law boasts more than 3,900 alumni, including more than 3,000 who reside and work in North Carolina. In September 2009, Campbell Law relocated to a state-of-the-art building in downtown Raleigh.

Chapman University’s Fowler School of Law
The Dale E. Fowler School of Law at Chapman University is situated on the main university campus in Orange, California, some forty miles southeast of Los Angeles. The student body of approximately 550 is taught by a full-time faculty of more than 45, five of whom are former U.S. Supreme Court judicial clerks. The Law School offers several curricular emphases: Advocacy & Dispute Resolution, Entertainment Law, Environmental & Land Use Law, International Law, Business Law, and Taxation. Students may also opt for the joint J.D./M.B.A. or J.D./M.F.A. (Film & Television Producing) degree programs. Clinical opportunities include the Elder Law Clinic, Family Violence Clinic, U.S. Tax Court Clinic, Mediation Clinic, Entertainment Contracts Clinic, and the Constitutional Jurisprudence Clinic.

II. About Cambridge

Cambridge has a 2000 year history. During the first century, the Belgic tribes established the first settlement at the location now recognized as Cambridge. The Belgic settlement achieved strategic significance when the Romans arrived in AD 43. Roman soldiers were stationed at the location, a ford for crossing the River Cam, on the Roman Road connecting Colchester with Chester. Through the centuries the settlement grew from a village to a delightful town.

Punting on the Cam is listed as one of the top ten things to do in England. >>
II. About Cambridge continued

A group of rebel scholars arrived in 1209, having left Oxford after that which applicable history describes as “violent quarrels” with Oxford residents. The first college, Peterhouse, was established in 1284. Sidney Sussex College, our study-abroad residential college and the Cambridge college attended by Oliver Cromwell, was founded in 1596. Sidney Sussex College was built on the site of a Franciscan friary.

Choral Services at Kings College are known throughout the world. Students are able to attend Evensong services at the College free of charge. >>

A round church, like those described in the DaVinci Code, is just down the street form the College. ✱
“Albert Camus once wrote that ‘You cannot create experience. You have to go through it.’ Among the main lessons we can take from this exceptional course is the life experience. This true heritage is intangible. You can not sell it, pass it or trade it. However, I can assure you that it is the greatest good that you can cultivate in your life. The teachings taught will contribute immensely for your professional career, no doubt. Having lived the experience of staying in one of the most prestigious colleges in the world is unparalleled.”

-Gustavo Corte Real-

Master of Comparative Law Student

The contemporary location is in the center of the beautiful and historic city and is truly outstanding. There are 10 museums and galleries within walking distance of Sidney Sussex. Cambridge is truly an excellent location for a study-abroad program. We, the sponsoring law schools, are privileged to offer law students the opportunity to study in Cambridge, as have Milton, Marlowe, Coleridge, Wordsworth and Byron before them.

In 2014, the Tour de France rolled through the streets of Cambridge. Students and faculty were able to watch out the College’s windows. >>
III. Sidney Sussex College

Sidney Sussex is a very well-kept secret—whether it is our Nobel Prize-winners, Elizabethan brickwork, charming Cloister Court, the haunting Chapel, exquisite rococo Hall, medieval cellars or beautiful ancient gardens—they all lie behind a rather self-effacing wall of Roman cement. Sidney’s history is an even better kept secret.

There is, however, a truly fascinating and entirely unexpected history to be told about a small institution which has always punched way above its weight and which lies at the heart of British history. Sidney Fellows and students from 1596 have made a huge impact on all aspects of the nation’s culture, religion, politics, business, legal and scientific achievements. It has also found time to produce soldiers, political cartoonists, alchemists, spies, murderers, ghosts and arsonists, as well as, media personalities, film and opera directors, a Premiership football club chairman, best-selling authors, the man who introduced soccer to Hungary, the 1928 Grand National winner and, so they say, Sherlock Holmes. And let’s not forget the University Challenge Champions of Champions, 2002. If you wanted to study the history of Britain over the last four hundred years, you could do worse than study the history of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge.

IV. Program Description

“...the summer after my 1L year and it was one of the greatest, most memorable summers of my life. The classes I took were unique and interesting, and getting to share each class with students from other law schools as well as judges from other countries was an invaluable, once-in-a-lifetime experience.

The field trip to London offered us a firsthand look at how the legal system operates in another country, which was the perfect way to see our European Union Law class come to life. Not only did the program offer ample time to explore the beautiful city of Cambridge and learn about the rich history of the University, we also toured other cities and even other countries on the weekends. I made lifelong friends with my classmates and professors and would do the whole program again in a heartbeat.”

-Alyson Tofukuji- Chapman University

Cumberland School of Law at Samford University, Campbell University School of Law and Chapman University School of Law will conduct the thirteenth annual study-abroad program at Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, England, July 1 - August 2, 2018. Cumberland School of Law has conducted study-abroad programs in England since 1990, first at the University of Kent in Canterbury, then Collingwood College, University of Durham, England, moving the program to Cambridge in 2005. In 2017, the Cambridge program included five Cumberland School of Law J.D. students, three Cumberland School of Law Master of Comparative Law (M.C.L.) students, three J.D. students from Chapman University and seven J.D. students from Campbell University. Most M.C.L. candidates are judges from Brazil, though other countries may also be represented. Sidney Sussex College is centrally located in Cambridge, convenient to many destinations of interest to students, including transportation by bus and train.

All students take the one-credit first-week course, The English Legal System and European Union: A Comparative Overview. Each student chooses two elective courses (two credits each) for the remainder of the program.

Elective courses:

- International Law of Art, Cultural Heritage & Antiquities
- Global Issues in Education, Equality & Human Rights Law
- Law of the European Union
- Comparative Criminal Law & Procedure
Arriving students and faculty will attend a reception on the evening of July 1 at 6:30 p.m. The reception will include an orientation for students and faculty concerning our residential college and the Cambridge area. Classes will be conducted Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of the first week of the program for the one-hour course treating the English Legal System and the European Union. The examination for this course will be conducted on Friday afternoon, July 6. Students are encouraged to visit the Municipal Court in Cambridge on one of these afternoons. The first week of classes is planned to accommodate a full-day field trip on Wednesday, July 4, to London to visit the Royal Courts of Justice, Middle Temple Inn of Court and Parliament. The program will provide bus transportation to and from London for our visit.

During the second and third week of classes there will be no classes on Friday, July 13, and Friday, July 20, to provide three-day weekends for travel or study. The last day of classes will occur on July 30 and final examinations will be conducted on July 31 and August 1 for the elective courses. Students, other than those who make individual arrangements with the program director, should plan to arrive at Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, on Sunday, July 1 and depart prior to 9:30 a.m. on Thursday, August 2. The program cannot furnish lodging either before our scheduled arrival date, July 1 or following our scheduled departure date, August 2. A closing dinner will be offered for students and faculty on Monday evening, July 30. A summary calendar of events and class schedule can be accessed here.
Students may anticipate examinations for each course to be comparable to law exams administered in American Bar Association approved law schools in the United States. Exam papers are handwritten by students. The professor responsible for each course will both write and grade the applicable examination. The 2018 Cambridge program will be limited to a maximum of 30 students if additional lodging cannot be arranged.

Directed Research

Cumberland School of Law offers a unique opportunity for Cambridge program participants to spend June in London studying as a directed research student under the guidance of Barrister Adrian Jenkala. A maximum of four students will be chosen to participate in the directed research program. A minimum of two students must enroll if this program is to be offered. Directed research students will be required to write a paper on a topic of their choice related to UK or European law. Students who are interested in participating in the directed research program should submit to Professor Floyd at md.floyd@samford.edu, a résumé and a brief narrative describing what they hope to accomplish by doing directed research.

Directed Research Applications Due:
Thursday, February 1, 2018

“The study-abroad program to Cambridge was an exciting, eye-opening experience for me. At first I was skeptical about skipping a summer of employment to romp about the United Kingdom. Fortunately, I asked many attorneys for advice on the matter, and ALL of the attorneys told me hands down to go travel. I am very thankful that I did. It is not often that you get the opportunity to discuss foreign policy with Brazilian Judges, shake hands with the former Lord Sheriff of the City of London, or sit in the chair of the President for the European Council.”

-Tommy Majors-
Cumberland School of Law

Early registration is encouraged.
V. Admission Criteria

Program participation is limited to law students in good standing at an American Bar Association approved law school, graduates of approved law schools in their country of origin or residence, or members of the Bar. Samford University, Campbell University, and Chapman University are Equal Opportunity Institutions and welcome applications for employment and educational programs from all individuals, regardless of race, color, sex, disability, national or ethnic origin.

VI. Application Procedures

All applications for admission must be accompanied by a $200 application fee which is non-refundable unless the application is rejected due to full enrollment, lack of sufficient student interest or domestic and/or international instability which is relevant to the program. The application fee will be applied to Housing and Administration Fees once the student is accepted. Deadline for submitting applications is March 1, 2018. Late applications may be arranged with the program director if space allows.

The program director recognizes that financial aid for legal studies may not be available until ten days prior to the start of the program; hence, a deferred time-frame for payment, other than the application deposit, is satisfactory if the student has preregistered and informed the program director of an acceptable payment schedule. All applications should be directed to Cumberland’s Director of International Studies, Professor Michael D. Floyd, at the address provided on the application form.

Online Application
VII. Academic Credit

Upon satisfactory completion of the required course work, Samford University will provide transcript information to the other law schools whose J.D. students participate in the program. Application of these credits will be governed by the policies of each student’s home school. Each student should check with his or her home school in advance of the program to determine whether and how these credits will be applied toward the J.D. degree. In particular, any student hoping to use these credits to graduate early should carefully check the requirements of his or her home school.

“The best part of the Cambridge program is the sense of community that comes from living in the same place as your professors and classmates for a month. It builds professional relationships and personal friendships in a way that you simply can’t get as a commuter law student back home. Inevitably, you’ll find yourself having incredibly enlightening conversations over breakfast or coffee. These unscripted interactions outside of class were where I learned the most. And as a practical matter, our world is getting smaller every day, so there’s a lot to be said for getting outside your comfort zone and learning how things work in other cultures.”

–T. Alan Moore–
Cumberland School of Law
VIII. Refunds, Cancellations or Termination of Program and Consular Information Sheet

Registered students who withdraw on or before May 11, 2018 will receive a refund except for the non-refundable application fee. Students withdrawing after May 11, 2018, and on or before May 25, 2018, will receive a 50% refund of Housing and Administration fees except for the application fee. Students withdrawing after May 25, 2018 will receive no refunds of Housing and Administration fees nor application fees, except in case of bona fide emergency circumstances. Tuition will be refunded based on the guidelines on Samford’s Financial Services Website.

In the event of cancellation of the program for lack of student interest, additional immigration issues, or University concern regarding student safety, the University will utilize maximum effort to refund all monies prepaid, including the application fee, within 60 days after the date of cancellation. The program director will use his best efforts to make arrangements for each student enrolled to attend a similar program, if the student so desires, if cancellation occurs after a deposit has been paid. Registered students will be advised of any such program cancellation by e-mail at their address on the application form and first class mail to their home address as indicated on their application for the program.

Notwithstanding any information concerning program cancellation and refund policy to the contrary, if the U.S. State Department determines that the country and area of the country in which the program will be conducted is an “area of instability,” students will be permitted to withdraw from the program upon learning that the site has been declared to be such. Students withdrawing under such circumstances shall be refunded fees paid except for room and board payments utilized prior to the date the site was declared an “area of instability.” The Consular Information Sheet for England, issued by the U.S. Department of State, will be furnished to all students upon registration. An updated Consular Information Sheet will be provided to all registered students if, either prior to the program beginning or subsequent thereto, the program location is determined to be an “area of instability.”

If changes occur in the course offerings for which the student has registered or other fundamental aspects of the program, the registered student will be advised by e-mail and given an opportunity to obtain a full refund of all fees paid. Any course that does not have a minimum enrollment of five students will be cancelled.
IX. Financial Matters

The tuition cost is a flat rate of $3,989.00 for any hours undertaken. X. Program Lodging and On-Site Administration

This study-abroad program will be conducted at Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, England. Cambridge is located in beautiful central England, a convenient location from which to travel and an ideal location for summer study. The accommodations at Sidney Sussex are modern single en-suite bedrooms, i.e., a single bedroom with private bath, with linens and towels furnished. In-room internet connections are furnished. Classes will be held in a convenient classroom within the residential college. During the 2018 program, Dr. James N. Lewis will serve as the on-site director. The director will be available for student consultations each class day. The director will also maintain a cell phone for emergency student contact every day, including weekends.

XI. Passports and Visas

Passports are required for a trip to England. Participating students should obtain their passports at their earliest convenience. Passports may be obtained through contact with the nearest State Department Office or United States Post Office. The UK has recently imposed new and stricter immigration requirements. The program director will provide each student traveling to England a letter explaining the nature of the requirements as they become available. It will be the responsibility of each participant to ensure compliance with the regulations once informed of the process and requirements. Obtaining passports and visas is each student’s responsibility.

Students who add the June directed research in London may have significantly earlier deadlines for obtaining the necessary visa.
XII. Transportation

Each student participating in the program will be responsible for arranging transportation to and from England. Airlines provide a variety of reduced fare plans and early booking can create substantial savings. Summer flights to Europe are filled quickly; hence early travel arrangements should be made. Flights from the United States to London typically arrive at either Heathrow Airport or Gatwick Airport. Refer to the following websites for information relating to the two airports and information concerning travel from the airports into London.

Students should pay careful attention to their air carriers' baggage allowances. Some airports also impose stricter carry-on luggage limitations than the airlines. Exceeding these limits can impose substantial extra charges. Information concerning the London subway system can be obtained by going to www.tfl.gov.uk/tube.

Cambridge is about 55 miles north of London. One can take the train to Cambridge from either London’s Kings Cross Station or Liverpool Street. The express train ride typically takes approximately 50 minutes from King’s Cross and approximately 80 minutes from Liverpool Street. It currently costs approximately 15–25 pounds; however, fares vary widely depending on the time of day. Trains generally depart about every 30 minutes from Kings Cross and 20 minutes from Liverpool Street.

The websites for train information are as follows:
www.nationalrail.co.uk
www.britrail.com
www.raileurope.com

BritRail passes may be a convenient, less expensive way to travel in England. Students should obtain a BritRail pass online well in advance of departing the U.S. The reduced rate BritRail pass will not be available in the U.K. and must be mailed to your U.S. address. www.britrail.com

“The Cambridge program was one of the best experiences of my life. Students and professors have the opportunity to interact in a way that is not possible in the normal law school classroom setting. Since the professors and students are from all over the world, we received a different outlook in classes. I met so many people that I would otherwise never have had the privilege of meeting. I left with new best friends. Cambridge is such a beautiful, picturesque city. There is so much history there, and it really enhances your educational experience. I cannot say enough wonderful things about the program, and I highly recommend that any student participates if he or she has the opportunity to do so. I wish I could go again next year!”

-Danielle Balczon-
Cumberland School of Law

XIV. Courses to be Offered

The English Legal System & the European Union: A Comparative Overview
(1 hour) Adjunct Professor Adrian Jenkala
This course explores the English Legal System, the role of the judiciary, and the current interface of the English system with the European Union. The course offers students a unique opportunity to understand the practical and academic aspects of the emerging constitutional basis for the European Union and its effects on the English system of justice. This course serves as an introductory orientation to the legal environment of the UK, and its relationship to the European Union, in order to provide perspective for the other comparative and international courses that will comprise the remainder of students’ time in Cambridge.

Law of the European Union
(2 hours) Adjunct Professor Adrian Jenkala
This course is designed to further students’ understanding of the European Union (EU) and its legal system. Topics include a review of the essential history and institutions; comparisons to other similar organizations (eg. EFTA, NAFTA, MERCOSUR, the African Union, ASEAN, and the WTO); the relationship between the law of the European Community and the law of its member states; the four freedoms; and significant substantive initiatives including the Lisbon Treaty. Following the UK Brexit referendum, recent elections in Germany and the disputed referendum in Catalonia, the course examines the effect of the change in the political balance in Europe. Students gain familiarity with the European Union (EU), its institutions, its legal and administrative structure, and its relationships with its member states. Students learn the overarching principles that govern EU law and develop facility in interpreting and understanding EU pronouncements. In addition, the European Union is reviewed as a participant in global international relations.

International Law of Art, Cultural Heritage & Antiquities
(2 hours), Dr. John Hall, Chapman University
This course will provide students with an overview of the legal issues relating to art, cultural heritage, and antiquities. Students will gain an understanding of the various relevant markets, institutions, services, and transactions around the world. Students will gain an appreciation of the applicable legal doctrines and regulations, and the rationales behind them. Specific topics will include artists’ rights; the role of copy right law domestically and internationally; the complex legal obligations of museums; the differing legal approaches to questions of title in Common Law and Civil Law nations; the international trade in stolen and looted antiquities; and how the law and the international community have responded to large-scale theft during conflict and occupation, such as the Nazi looting of art during the Holocaust.

Global Issues in Education, Equality & Human Rights Law
(2 hours) Professor Lisa Lukasik, Campbell University
Education was formally recognized as a human right in 1948 with the adoption of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights. Education as a human right has remained high on the agenda of the international community and has been reaffirmed in numerous global human rights treaties, including for example the UNESCO Convention against Discrimination in Education, the Convention on the Rights of the Child, the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women, the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination, and the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities. In this course, students will develop an understanding of the international law on human rights, focusing on the right to education. They will compare the manner in which different nations use distinct legislative, administrative, or other measures to secure the right to education in compliance (or not) with international law, and they will analyze and critique the effectiveness of select nations’ chosen measures to secure human rights, again focusing on access to education and promotion of equality.

Comparative Criminal Law & Procedure
(2 hours) Professor Kandice Horsey, Samford University
This course will compare differences and similarities between the U.S. criminal justice system and the criminal justice system of England and Wales. It will build upon the foundations established in Criminal Law during the first year of law school. It will also specifically compare Criminal Procedure, Evidence, and the practical aspects of criminal trials in both jurisdictions. However, Criminal Procedure, Evidence, and Trial Advocacy are not prerequisites to this course. Students that have already taken those courses will benefit from an enriched perspective and hopefully, a much deeper understanding; students who have not will benefit from an overview and general comparative understanding of both systems. By the end of the course, students will understand that despite similar origins and foundations the U.S. criminal justice system is significantly different to the system in England and Wales.
XV. Materials for Course of Study

Information concerning casebook materials for courses offered will be available in sufficient time to allow some preparation by students prior to the summer semester. Individual students who wish to have course materials for early preparation should request the necessary information from the program director. Students should purchase their casebooks before leaving the U.S. and bring those to Cambridge.

XVI. Responsibility and Modifications

“This was my first time studying abroad and it has been amazing. It was a great way to not only experience Cambridge, but to meet people from Alabama, California, North Carolina, and even Brazil. It was great to make new friends from so many different places and to have the opportunity to learn from each other. This program has been socially, culturally and educationally enriching in ways beyond what I imagined. Also, the opportunity to take classes with students from other law schools, as well as judges from other countries, was invaluable and a once in a lifetime experience. All in all, my experience in Cambridge was eye-opening and life-changing on a number of levels. For me, this program has helped broaden my interests and pushed me to try new things. The experiences I have had here are ones that can never be replaced. It has been one of the most memorable summers of my life.”

“Mark Twain wrote that ‘travel is fatal to prejudice, bigotry, and narrow-mindedness.’ After spending six weeks studying in Cambridge, England, I could not agree more with this statement. It is very easy for one to fall victim to the small sphere of influence that local, familiar, and secure settings provide, subsequently hindering one into seeking anything larger than what’s within this sphere of influence. As hard as it may be to break out of this sphere, the rewards are astronomical. Cumberland’s study abroad program not only opened my eyes to geographical, social, and cultural differences, but it also helped me appreciate the grand scheme of what a law degree represents, both locally and internationally. From sitting in on British court, to observing the House of Lords, to eating at Middle Temple, and to learning from professors and actors playing key roles in the European Union and the restructuring of Ukraine’s constitution, Cumberland’s abroad program opened doors to me which I would have never had the opportunity to experience alone. The experience changed me for the better and caused me to realize the prejudice, bigotry, and narrow-mindedness I held simply by not having extensively travelled abroad. The Program was an excellent way for me to escape the local, familiar, and secure surroundings of Birmingham, and instead delve into a culture both similar and dissimilar to my own. I viewed the Cambridge program as an investment. Not only was it an investment for my future by way of taking class and furthering my degree, but more importantly, the program was an experience that I knew I would regret the rest of my life if I did not take part. From every aspect, this decision was fortified by my experiences throughout the program. To a student considering the Program, I would recommend it wholeheartedly, not only for the furtherance of one’s legal education but also in order to experience another culture that definitively helped shaped America’s legal system.”
