Samford faculty experts share thoughts with media.

Howard Finch (Business) to the Birmingham Business Journal April 21 on his advice to 2015 graduates

"My advice to new graduates concerns how they position themselves to seek and maximize their first full-time position. Approach each opportunity in terms of what you can contribute to help the firm succeed, not what the firm can offer and do for you. No one is owed a job; employers are looking for people with talents and ability who can provide solutions to problems."

Jonathan Bass (History) to The Birmingham News/al.com April 16 on the 52nd anniversary of Martin Luther King Jr.'s "Letter from Birmingham Jail"

"King and [Wyatt] Walker had discussed writing a jailhouse epistle while in Albany, Ga., in 1962. In addition, King had previously preached a sermon entitled 'Paul's Letter to Christians in America.' This was something they wanted to do, but the occasion never presented itself until Birmingham." ■

The Old Howard 100 drew 332 riders to Marion April 17.

Business School Maintains AACSB Accreditation

Samford's Brock School of Business has successfully maintained its accreditation for its undergraduate, master of business administration and master of accountancy degree programs, according to an announcement by AACSB International (The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business).

AACSB International is the longest-serving global accrediting body for business schools. AACSB accreditation is the hallmark of excellence in business education and has been earned by less than 5 percent of the world's business programs.

"Our reaffirmation of business accreditation provides external assurance that our students and programs benefit from the highest standards in terms of faculty qualifications, curriculum content and educational resources," said Howard Finch, Brock School of Business dean.

Achieving accreditation requires a process of rigorous internal and external review, and continuous improvement efforts to meet the 15 standards AACSB requires, Finch explained. Standards include a high-quality teaching environment, a commitment to continuous improvement and curricula responsive to the needs of business. ■

Marketing and Communication Earns Awards

Samford University's Office of Marketing and Communication team has won several national and regional awards in recent weeks.

The Religion Communicators Council presented a Best of Class in the Public Relations category for the 2013-14 Annual Report. It was one of 11 Best of Class awards presented during RCC's recent national convention in Washington, D.C.

Other honors earned during RCC's annual DeRose-Hinkhouse Memorial Awards were awards of excellence for the annual report and for the Know It, Share It information cards, as well as a certificate of merit for the "Shoe a Nation" promotional video produced by Brad Radice, director of broadcast media.

The same three projects also were honored in the Baptist Communicators Association's Wilmer C. Fields Awards competition: first place for the annual report, third place for the Know It, Share It card, and third place for the "Shoe a Nation" video.

Mary Wimberley, senior news and feature writer, received a first place award in the feature writing category from the Alabama Media Professionals for her story about Samford employee Susan Nolin and her daughters, who are Samford students. The Nolins and other family members were featured in a vignette about adoptive families on CBS television's annual A Home for the Holidays special. ■

Out & About

Kristin Bakkegard (Biological and Environmental Sciences) presented her research on "The Yawning Behaviors of the Red Hills Salamander (Phaeognathus hubrichti)" at the 76th annual meeting of the Association of Southeastern Biologists in Chattanooga, Tennessee, April 1-4.

Jennifer Beck, Sandi Prater, Susan Blazer and Katherine Jarnigan (English Language Learner Institute) presented "Giving Them Something to Talk About—Encouraging Reluctant Speakers" at the Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) International Conference in Toronto, Canada, in March. Beck and Prater presented the same program at the Alabama-Mississippi Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages (AMTESOL) Regional Conference in Tuscaloosa, Alabama, in January. Blazer and Jarnigan presented "Grammar—I'm Lovin' It—Interactive Strategies for Teaching Grammar" and "Implementing E-Portfolios for Student-Directed Learning" at the AMTESOL conference.

Stephen Chew (Psychology) delivered two keynote addresses, one to faculty and one to Student Services personnel, at Palm Beach State College as part of its Spring Development Day. He also gave an invited presentation for the Center for Teaching, Learning and Assessment at the University of West Florida in Pensacola. Finally, he presented an invited address at the Southwestern Teaching of Psychology conference in Wichita, Kansas.

Cyndi Cortes and Andrea Collins (Nursing) presented "A Pilot Study to Incorporate Interprofessional Education with Family Nurse Practitioner Students in an Online Program and Pharmacy Students in a Traditional Program Using a Blended Approach" at the InterProfessional Health Care Summit in Savannah, Georgia, April 10. Cortes and Debra Whisenant (University of Alabama) presented "Interprofessional Process for Developing Community Health Promoter Curriculum in Haiti" at the same conference.

Erika Cretton-Scott, Danielle Cruthirds and Lori Coward (Pharmacy) published "Incorporation of Hands-On Sterile Technique Instruction in an Introductory Pharmacy Practice Experience" in the American Journal of Pharmaceutical Education Vol. 79, Issue 2, 2015: Article 28.

Carolyn Crocker (World Languages and Cultures), one of 16 consultants selected from across the nation, participated in the by-invitation-only McGraw-Hill Intermediate Spanish Digital Editions Symposium in Miami, Florida, March 26-27. The 16 members consulted on the successes and pitfalls of the current digital platform that McGraw-Hill uses for student learning, and the use of short films as the basis for an Intermediate Spanish course. They also critiqued an innovative text/product that is in production, due to publish within two years.

Della Darby (Law Library) presented "Metadata Magic with MarcEdit: Transforming Spreadsheet Data into MARC Records" at the Alabama Library Association meeting in Point Clear, Alabama, April 9. On April 17, she presented "Finding the Way with eBooks: How They are Used by Legal Scholars and How We Can Increase Rosemary Fisk (Arts and Sciences) and Larry Thompson (Arts) have been chosen as Samford's 2015 nominees for the U.S. Professor of the Year Program. Deans submitted nominations for their respective schools, and a committee led by the Center for Teaching, Learning and Scholarship then selected this year's nominees. Campus colleagues, outside supporters and undergraduate students provided letters of support for each nominee.

Jake Galdo (Pharmacy) was appointed to workgroups for the Pharmacy Quality Alliance. He was reappointed to the Patient-Centered Advisory Panel and appointed to the Stakeholder Advisory Panel, Group C, for the National Community Pharmacists Association. He attended the House of Delegates for American Pharmacists Association for Georgia, and presented a continuing education program on hypertension for U.S. Pharmacist in February. He presented three posters at the American Pharmacists Association national meeting: "Influence of a Pharmacist on Smoking Cessation in a Community Pharmacy," with C. Bertrand, A. Firm and K. Brittain; "The Impact of a Pharmacist-Dietician Multidisciplinary Team on Improving Patient Biometrics to Cardiovascular Disease Goals," with A. Firm, C. Bertrand and C. Bourg; and "Impact of Bubble Packs on Adherence to Statins, Beta-blockers, Oral Hypoglycemic Agents, and Angiotensin-Converting Enzyme Inhibitors," with S. Shah, S. Kachanasuwan and H. Young. All three also appeared online in the Journal of American Pharmacists Association for March/April 2015.

Ashley Gassner (Global Engagement) presented "F-1 Regulations: The Basics" for those new to the field of international student advising at the annual Alabama Association of International Educators conference at Samford April 9. Gassner serves as chair of the organization, which has members at both K-12 and higher education levels.

Greg Gorman (Pharmacy) was appointed Method Validation Task Group chair for the American Association of Pharmaceutical Scientists (AAPS) nonclinical dose formulation working group. The group will prepare a white paper on method validation for nonclinical dose formulation analysis.
